

Welcome

Find out what these kids will be asking Santa for? pg 29

It's Christmas, and in our neck of the woods, it's also the start of a long, hot summer. Here at Imnop though, we're celebrating for another reason too – it's our third birthday! Thanks for supporting us, however long you've been reading.

Speaking of Christmas, we know how hard it is to find memorable presents. So check out our Ultimate Holiday Gift Guide on page 10 – there really is something for everyone. For bathtime fun, you can't go past the Tugboat from Green toys (pg 13). Rainbow Blocks (pg 11) are a cool update on a classic. And the Kimmel Kids stencil set (pg 12) offers imaginative tools to help kids create amazing art all by themselves.

Kids love giving gifts as much as they like receiving them. What better gift than something they made themselves from scratch? Joel Henriques shows us how to make a handmade album (pg 21) that showcases their favourite activity or hobby. Next, we show you a neat way to wrap them, using stamps, string and post tags to evoke the excitement of receiving a parcel in the post (pg 8).

In the spirit of giving, I would also like to draw your attention to our special online eBay auction of Jennifer Vallez's wonderful designer dolls (pg 33). Each unique figure has been created using a look supplied by five of the world's best kids outfitters. And proceeds of the auction go towards helping children through the Make a Wish Foundation. Find out how you can bid on page 44. Wishing you and your family a merry holiday season.

LMNOP CONTRIBUTORS

GAIA CORNWELL

DEAR SANTA ..., PAGE 29

Your favourite letter of the alphabet and why?

'G'! For 'Gaia', of course. (And now, for 'Gerald', my fiance, as well.)

Name a favourite childhood game. I grew up without a television, but my sister and I would play 'TV' quite a bit. It involved forcing someone to watch us act out various shows. They would change the 'channel' and we had to keep up. Kind of odd, but now that I think about it, really fun!

Were you a tree climber or a reader?

I climbed the occasional tree, but I would have been described as a reader. I fell asleep in a pile of books every night.

A childhood activity you wish you could still do.

Conversations with my stuffed animals.

How would your parents describe you as a child?

A silly goose!

Favourite childhood toy?

Sealie, a life-sized, baby seal stuffedanimal, that yes, still lives with us.

Favourite book growing up? Outside Over There by Maurice Sendak and anything by Roald Dahl.

JENNIFER VALLEZ

LIVING DOLL, PAGE 33

Your favourite letter of the alphabet and why? The letter S – aside from the way

it looks, it's also for Sophie (my daughter).

Name a favourite childhood game. I was a pretty avid Ms Pacman player.

Were you a tree climber or a reader?

I guess a reader, but I was always busy drawing.

A childhood activity you wish you could still do.

I used to spend hours making miniature foods out of clay for my dollhouse. I wish I had that kind of time these days.

How would your parents describe you as a child?

Probably as their little artist. I was constantly making them look at my artwork.

Favourite childhood toy? And do you still have it? Fashion Plates!! | WISH | still had them.

Favourite book growing up? Shel Silverstein's Where the Sidewalk Ends was a favourite.

STU MCLACHLAN

Your favourite letter of the alphabet and why?

'W', because it's 'M' when you turn it upside down and a double 'V' when you split it. It's also a zig-zag line when it's joined. Very versatile.

Name a favourite childhood game.

Playing soldiers or exploring the quarries, bush and streams in the Adelaide hills.

Were you a tree climber or a reader?

A tree climber.

A childhood activity you wish you could still do.

Climb trees and spend days making model planes.

How would your parents describe you as a child?

He loves drawing, painting and exploring and above all being silly.

Favourite childhood toy? And do you still have it?

My yellow 'Standish' chopper (push bike), it took me many places and gave me many great memories but sadly it was well worn out a long time ago.

Favourite book growing up? Animal Farm by George Orwell.

ODDS AND ENDS

Home Beautiful

Newly listed, the Emerson Dollhouse by innovative designers Brinca Dada is sure to steal the show come Christmas Day.

It features six, light-filled rooms, including a kitchen, library and a sleek bathroom. And brace yourself for the fixtures: working solar panels, sliding glass doors, two fireplaces and recessed LED lights.

This obsession with detail extends to the practical. The clamshell design opens the house up so that kids, friends (and you) can play at once. And non-toxic, lead-free stains and paints give it the green light for youngsters and the environment. And wait till you see the furniture you can collect to bring your dream home to life. Admit it – you'd like to be a doll owner right now.

ALYNA'S MUM

Feathers, fills and sparkles – with a daughter who only dressed like a princess, Andrea Rembeck had no choice but to make it her business.

PHOTOGRAPHED BY Ian MacPherson

Above: Handmade, hand-dyed, old world style – Rembeck's gorgeous cotton tulle tutus in dusty pastels get more durable with age, she says.

LMNOP: How were you inspired to start your business?

AR: Since turning two four years ago, my daughter refused to wear pants and just wanted to dress in fairy, ballerina and princess dresses. I couldn't find anything in the market that was in line with my aesthetic and environmental ethos other than hot pink polyester. So I decided to make my own. The result was so good that friends begged me to turn it into a business.

LMNOP: What advice would you give to other parents trying to start a business?

AR: Be prepared to put in the hours and make sure you keep your day job until you can draw money from the business.

LMNOP: How do you juggle your business with parenthood?

AR: It's a matter of being organised, efficient and having routines so I can spend quality time with my daughter after school and on the weekend. If I have to work outside my dedicated schedule, she will happily 'work' alongside me making her own design boards and sketches.

LMNOP: What's your biggest challenge as a parent?

AR: Being a mother, a wife and running a business all at the same time in a way that keeps everyone involved happy – including myself!

LMNOP: Describe your ideal family day?

AR: Turning off the phone and the computer and having no commitments! We might start with breakfast in the garden, maybe wander down to the beach – and finish off with a lovely early dinner at a favourite restaurant.

LMNOP: The best piece of advice you'll ever give to your daughter? AR: Be your own person and pursue your dreams with passion.

SPECIAL

TP: Rilen TPOra: Santa

Christmas is the busiest time of year for the post office. And for most of us, there's nothing quite like receiving a fat, brown paper parcel stuck over with airmail stamps and tied with string. This year, why not make your own? Recycle old stamps from letters, or buy a few of the beautifully designed ones available. It's a fun craft activity to do with the kids and it will make your gifts extra exciting.

how-to

Photograph a project – a LEGO building, puzzle or painting from start to finish. Then create a book of the experience together using the following simple materials. They make terrific Christmas gifts and kids love the feeling of accomplishment they get. You will too.

one. Collect the photos.

two. Using a stiff paper, cut out pages for the book that are slightly larger than the photos.

three. With a hole punch or craft knife, make two holes on one end of each page for the binding.

four. Mount the photos by taping or gluing them onto the paper pages. Make sure to keep the binding holes aligned together.

five. Cut two short lengths of string and thread them through the binding holes and secure each string with a knot. Keep the loops a little loose so the pages may turn freely. You could also use ribbon or yarn. On one of my books I even used old metal key rings.

six. Enjoy their activity all over again!

Illustrations by GAIA CORNWALL

We asked five Imnop readers to tell us what they'll be asking Santa for this Christmas. Here's what they said, accompained by Gaia Cornwall's charming custom portraits of each child.

"... I want a pony that lives in my backyard and that I can ride everyday. And a Cinderella dress." Sydney, age 4.

"...I would love a robot stegosaurus dinosaur that can play with me when daddy is at work. Please." Ebi-Kun, age 5.

"... I would like a stripey-coloured hot air balloon to fly in with my imaginary pet owl." Olly, age 4.

"... for Christmas, please turn my sister into Dora the Explorer." Jacinta Rose, age 2.

"... for Christmas, I would love to go swimming in the ocean with Nemo!" Ava, age 2.

Happy Feet

Easy to wear and easy on the eye too – your kids won't want to take them off.

If you've ever had trouble keeping shoes on your kids' feet, then here's the answer: Canadian brand Native Shoes has just released their latest collection of super-light, super-comfy footwear. There are three styles to choose from – Corrado, Miller and Jefferson – and loads of brilliant hues like Gossip Purple, Jiffy Black and Parachute Green. Oh – and they won't leave much of a carbon footprint either.

See page 44 for details on how you can own one of our lovely doll models – and help sick children too.

$\begin{array}{c} \operatorname{Bob}\operatorname{Gill}\\ \textbf{The Present}\end{array}$

Receiving a present and not knowing what it is is one of the joys of childhood, matched perhaps in adulthood by the joy of giving a present that you know will be received with delight. The sheer thrill of conjecture is a feeling remembered by all of us who have ever espied a present with our name on it before we are allowed to open it, and this sense of limitless possibility is the subject of Bob Gill's book The Present.

Little Arthur imagines the present could be anything. Well, not anything; it couldn't be a fish in a bowl for a fish wouldn't keep. But it could be a dartboard like his cousin Harold's. So when a woman comes to the door collecting gifts for underprivileged children, Arthur is faced with the question: Is he the sort of boy that could give away his present – without ever having known what it was?

BATHING BEAUTIES

How refreshing – this new swimwear collection from Agnes Valentine draws inspiration from the 20s, 30s and 40s for an innocently lovely beach look. Each piece combines luxury fabrics and finishes with practical, feminine styling. Boy-cut legs are ideal for active girls on the go. Add a demin skirt or a pair of cropped trousers for an easy summer outfit that's ready for anything. agnesvalentine.com

Doll out for Kids

Here's your chance to secure one of the five unique dolls created by Jennifer Vallez (page 33) – and help out real life kids in need at the same time. Simply visit ebay.com and type 'Sophie & Lili LMNOP Auction' in the search field.

Proceeds of the winning bids go to the Make a Wish Foundation. The auction begins on Monday 13 December, 2010 and runs for seven days. Good luck!

F is for Frame It

And B is for a Brilliant Way to decorate your child's room. Check out Martine and Drew Booth's clever idea – they scour old children's books for illustrations and create vintage prints out of these forgotten gems. Choose from themes including cowboys and indians, letters, numbers, maps and more. You'll receive a description of where the illustration comes from and the date of publication with your print.

Ask nicely and Martin and Drew will even do a customised search for you if you're looking for something in particular. Good hunting! Visit vintageprints.com.au for more details.

circus dreams

There's no doubt that tots can make life a three-ring circus. So why not go all the way and let them sleep in this circusinspired crib? Made by innovative LA-based sustainable design company Kalon Studios, the Caravan Crib marries classic design with bold pop colours for a fun, friendly and ultra-safe sleep vehicle. It's practical too, converting to your toddler's first bed when the time comes.

No Ordinary Fundraiser

It just warms our cockles when the big end of town rolls up their sleeves and decides to do something for the community. In this case, it's some of Australia's most celebrated chefs, whose fine restaurants are located along Darlinghurst's vibrant Crown Street. They have contributed recipes to a beautifully photographed cookbook to raise money for the local Crown Street Public School, which was first established in 1849.

Beyond the 200 mouthwatering recipes, there's another agenda – encouraging a love of fresh, sustainable eating in youngsters. Who could argue with that?

Just A$29.95, we think it's going to find its way under more than a few Christmas trees this year. And to share the joy just a little more, $1 from each sale will be donated by the school to the Salvation Army's Oasis Youth Support Program, another Crown St fixture.
